Board Rejects
Overall Demands
Of Both Groups

Chopping proposed pay schedules almost in half, Palm Springs Board of Education members last night unanimously voted salary increases of 5.9 and 5.8 per cent for school teachers and administrators, respectively.

Flatly rejecting requests for increases of from six to 10 per cent for teachers and 10 per cent for administrators, the board approved a 1958-59 salary schedule recommended by Schools Supt. Wallace Muelder, ending three weeks of board deliberation.

ONLY A FRACTION higher than pay raises granted last year, the new schedule gives teachers an average $374 addition to their pay checks and adds an average $343 to salaries of non-teaching certificated personnel.

Muelder's schedule for teachers will cost the district $53,250 more than the $887,150 budgeted for salaries in the 1957-58 year. This includes pay for 32 replacement and new teachers expected here next fall.

FOR ADMINISTRATORS meaning such personnel as principals, counselors and the district librarian, the new salary schedule adds $8,726 to the budget.

Twice - delayed action on the new salary budget was initiated by Board Member Frank Muller, who moved for rejection of the schedules requested by the Palm Springs Teachers Association and school administrators.

The board unanimously approved Muller's motion for rejection, and, a few minutes later, again voted unanimously in favor of Member Herbert Hass' motion to accept Muelder's salary recommendations.

EARLIER, ARGUMENTS in support of requested salary increases were repeated by Vernon Howeth, representing the teachers' association, and Warren Linville and Wayland Reynolds, representing the administrators.

Howeth reiterated the previously submitted proposal for a minimum six per cent and a maximum 10 per cent increase for teachers while Linville reduced the previously requested 10 per cent administration increase to 9.49 per cent.

THE PROPOSED schedules rejected by the board incorporated a "cost of living" increase of four per cent, which was similarly figured into Muelder's recommended salaries.

Of the average $374 raise given the teachers, $269 is a cost of living adjustment and $105 is a salary boost. In the administration schedule, $395 of the average $543 granted is attributed to cost of living and $148 is tagged as a pay raise.

THE NEW PROGRAM hikes teacher salaries from an average $6,356 for 1957-58, to $6,730. Administrators are raised from an average $9,328 to $9,871.

Muelder's recommendation has its greatest effect on teachers in the intermediate salary ranges and administrators in the top pay scales. The superintendent explained that "there are fewer teachers in top salary levels than administrators."

Teachers and administrators who filled the board meeting room greeted the approved salary schedules with varied reactions, but few indicated their satisfaction with the new scale.

ONE TEACHER pointed out since four per cent of the increase is actually a cost of living adjustment, "we're really only getting a 1.9 per cent pay raise."

This drew the comment from Muller that "the cost of living might go down next year."

Board President Fred Morrison rapped his gavel for order as the audience broke into laughter.

Board Votes 'Classified' Salary Raise

Acts After Hearing Report
Of Consultant

Board of Education members last night approved an average of about six per cent salary increase for 95 classified employees of the Palm Springs School District.

The pay raise, designed to elevate salaries of "underpaid employees" in lower echelons, affects school custodians, cafeteria help, bus drivers, clerks and similar personnel.

BOARD MEMBERS unanimously approved the increase, carrying an estimated annual cost of about $20,000, which was recommended in a survey report submitted to the board by a Los Angeles consulting firm.

The report, delivered by Robert Gold, who conducted the survey requested by the school district last March, was designed to place the district on a competitive level with other area employees and to upgrade personnel in the lower ranks.

GOLD, WHO POINTED out that classified employees in the top scales are virtually unaffected by the new salary schedule, said that low-level employees "were definitely underpaid."

Gold's recommendations were based solely on job requirements. Qualifications of specific employees were not considered, Gold explained, and salary recommendations were computed only on the duties required by each job classification.

Gold's report closely paralleled, but was lower than proposals submitted to the board by Leverett Prosky, who represented the district chapter of the California School Employee's Association.

Youth Center To Be Closed For Two Weeks

The Palm Springs Youth Center will be closed during the final two weeks of school while students are preparing for examination and graduation, Director Carl Plate announced today.

While the Youth Center is closed, Plate and his wife, Inez, who is co-director, will be on vacation.

Board Orders Schools To Close on Memorial Day

Faced with apparently heavy demand for local observance of a traditional national holiday, Board of Education members last night ordered Palm Springs schools to close for Memorial Day, Friday, May 30.

The board unanimously rescinded its decision last year to hold classes on the holiday "in order to assure a minimum school year of 175 days."

ACTION TO CLOSE the schools was fostered by Board Member Herbert Hass, who said he had been contacted by many residents planning three-day family holidays on the Memorial Day weekend.

Hass also pointed out that "many students will be absent

If she wins the state title, Miss Briggs will go to Cleveland where she will enter the national NAACP contest. The national convention will be held in July, and part of the honor of winning the state contest will be an all-expense trip to Cleveland for two, including the local winner. (Desert Sun Photo.)

Firemen Struggle to Check Signal Hill Gas, Oil-Fed Fire

LONG BEACH, Calif. — Hundreds of firemen struggled today to contain a gas and oil-fed fire raging unchecked through three square blocks of an oil refinery.

Two men were dead and three to seven reported missing as a result of a series of explosions and the ensuing fire which raged through the 15 million dollar Hancock Oil Company refinery.

At least seven were reported injured.

FLAMES TOWERED hundreds of feet into the sky and a huge cloud of smoke covered the fire scene and several adjacent communities.

The refinery was almost destroyed by the fire, which broke out Thursday afternoon. Flames were carried from tank to tank by rivulets of burning oil.

FIREMEN FROM Signal Hill, Long Beach, Los Angeles County, the Air Force, Forest Service and nearby communities so far had succeeded in containing the fire to the refinery area.

Firemen threw up a curtain of water around the perimeter of the blaze and soaked down unmolten gas and butane tanks.

A dozen fires burned through the night, lighting up the sky for miles. The glow was spotted 25 miles away.

FIRE OFFICIALS said the blaze might be controlled today. The main worry was a 5,000-gallon tank containing tetraethyl lead.

A fire official said the material was poisonous and would pose a severe threat if the material was spread. Firemen wet down the tank to keep it cool.

Fourteen tanks in a field of about 50 had been destroyed by fire by early today. Four tanks containing 100,000 cubic feet of natural gas collapsed when flames burned away their supports. They did not ignite, however.

Fire officials feared a switch in the wind might drive the flames in a new direction of destruction.

AT ONE TIME a huge natural gas storage tank near the refinery was threatened. Had it exploded, the blast probably would have meant a major disaster for the little, oil-rich community of Signal Hill and for Long Beach which surrounds it.

A series of explosions ripped through the refinery, bordering the Long Beach Municipal Airport. Authorities said a leak which dripped crude oil on steam coils probably was the cause.

Algiers Army Rebels Ask 'Revolution'

Call on French
Nation to Sweep
De Gaulle to Power

PARIS — The Algiers army rebels called on the French nation today to overthrow the Fourth Republic and sweep Gen. Charles de Gaulle to power.

The challenge from the army generals and their revolutionary "committees of public safety" for all of Algeria was one of the most defiant challenges ever flung at a French government.

IT CAME SHORTLY after defiant generals, Moslems and French colonialists met in a government building in Algiers and publicly proclaimed their all-Algerian committee.

Premier Pierre Pflimlin still was struggling to reach a "peace" settlement with the Algiers insurgents but rapid series of events made this plainly impossible.

THE REBELS:

—Proclaimed the new committee is the "repository of the popular sovereignty."

—Appealed to all Frenchmen in France to set up their own revolutionary public safety committees in defiance of the government.

—Said they would fight until a government headed by De Gaulle is set up in Paris.

GEN RAOUL SALAN, the defiant French commander in chief in Algeria, presided today over the opening session of today's fateful meeting in Algiers. It was the most active part he has taken yet in the committees.

Perhaps even more important, the insurgents elected firebrand paratrooper Gen. Jacques Massu as co-president of the Algerian Committee with Moslem leader Sid Cara. Massu has been the most outspoken leader of the rebellion and formed the first anti-government committee.

THE ALGERIENS challenge appeared to knock the props out from under Pflimlin's repeatedly proclaimed hopes of a face-saving compromise. But more ominous was the fact that Salan took such an active part in the meeting; he controls France's 400,000 troops in Algeria.

Once again the prospects of riots and disorder was raised in France, strengthening De Gaulle's chances of gaining power — and strengthening the chances of a bloody counter-move led by the Communists.

Salan's loyalty to the Paris government had been a cornerstone of the Pflimlin government.

Sales, Use Tax Receipts Here Up 13 Per Cent

Palm Springs sales tax receipts continued to reflect a 13 per cent increase in the resort's business volume over last year, City Finance Director Shelby Langford reported today.

Sales and use tax receipts for the month of March, received by the city 90 days after collection by the state, reached $241,938 for the fiscal year from July, 1957, to the end of March.

However, March receipts of $19,143 indicated a slight dip below the $21,738 collected in March 1957.

Tax collections for the corresponding period of fiscal 1957 registered $190,465, substantially below the 1958 fiscal returns. But Langford explained that the current total includes a use tax added during the previous year. Another 14 per cent of the increase, he noted, is attributed to new business firms.

Fighter of Red Oppression Graduates From Palm Valley

Two years ago, 17-year-old Aurel Csaba Andrassy spent his "school days" hurling Molotov cocktails at Russian tanks lumbering through the revolt-torn streets of Budapest.

Last night, 18-year-old "Chaba" Andrassy was a member of the Palm Valley School graduating class, and the throwing arm that once terrorized Soviet troops is now the dread of the baseball diamond.

"CHABA HAS BEEN a very bright student," said J. Blake Field, Palm Valley School owner-director. "His progress has been remarkable."

Chaba was a thin, shy youngster, still carrying the sharp memory of high school comrades cut down by Russian gunfire, when he started classes at Palm Valley in February 1957.

HE WAS A LEADER of 70 young students armed as "Freedom Fighters" during the Hungarian revolt before he made his way to the United States and the Palm Springs home of his aunt, Mrs. Ethel Kohut.

Barely able to speak or understand English, Chaba soon adapted himself to school routine, made fast friends with his classmates and buckled down to difficult studies in an even more difficult language.

"CHABA TOOK THE same courses as the other students, without any favoritism," Field remarked. "I think it's remarkable that he was able to take written examinations in only one-and-a-half years."

Eagerly plunging into his school books, Chaba studied English, United States history, chemistry and advanced mathematics — and passed all his tests.

After classes, he took part in school athletic activities.

SUN-TANNED AND a good deal huskier than the day he enrolled in school, Chaba has forgotten both his shyness and the European custom of clicking his heels when he's introduced to a newcomer.

He changed his name from Csaba to "Chaba" because "that's the way it's pronounced," and it's easier to read.

Asked what he enjoyed most about his school life, Chaba confessed that "I like everything."

BUT HE'S PARTICULARLY interested in chemistry and engineering. He's planning to enter the armed services, probably the Navy, so he can attend technical schools devoted to his favorite subjects.

"Chaba would like to go on to college, but that's beyond his means," Fields explained. "Maybe he'll be able to go to college."

Believed From Behind Iron Curtain

Sub Reported Sunk After
Search of Area

BUENOS AIRES — President Arturo Frondizi told a press conference today that the Argentine navy attacked an unidentified submarine off the Patagonian coast May 21.

Frondizi said the submarine was believed sunk or damaged.

THE NAVY DEPARTMENT in Washington said "no American submarines are missing in South American waters or elsewhere."

The British Admiralty in London said none of its submarines had been operating in the area at the time of the reported attack.

Western naval sources in London speculated that the unidentified submarine reported by Frondizi may have been from behind the Iron Curtain.

SOVIET SUBMARINES are known to be operating in Western Hemisphere waters. Red China, Poland and East Germany also number submarines in their small fleets.

The President said a squadron of Argentine warships sighted a submarine northeast of Puerto Cracker in the Golfo Nuevo Gulf on May 21.

AFTER FRUITLESS attempts at recognition signals, four depth charge attacks were made.

He added that the warships searched the vicinity without finding the submarine, which was believed to have been sunk or damaged.

New Forestry Station in NPS To Be Dedicated

County officials and state dignitaries will be present Sunday for the dedication of the new California Division of Forestry station in North Palm Springs.

The open house and barbecue will be sponsored by the Division of Forestry and the North Palm Springs Volunteer Firemen and a free barbecue lunch will be served. Boy Scouts in the area will sell cold drinks donated by the local merchants.

The new forestry station is located one block west of the Dillon Road and Indian Avenue intersection, in back of the Tram Vue Ranch Trailer Park.

$140,000 For One

Loss Caused by Inadequate Convention Facilities Cited

Lack of adequate convention facilities in Palm Springs is costing hotels, merchants and restaurants hundreds of thousands of dollars every year, it was declared today by Chamber of Commerce Manager Jimmy Cooper.

Emphasizing his point, Cooper stated a convention scheduled for the fall season that would have contributed an estimated $140,000 to the economy of the community, was cancelled because "we could not offer a suitable convention hall."

"THE SUM OF $140,000 is not just one that we picked out of the hat," Cooper stated, "but a solid figure based on a national survey to determine how convention members and delegates spend their money."

"Bobby Nye, our convention manager, has broken the estimate down as follows: Hotels for accommodations and food, $35,000; restaurants and bars, $30,000; retail stores, $30,000; theaters, clubs and sightseeing, $12,000; local transportation, and gas, $7,500; miscellaneous, $9,000."

"THIS GROUP," Cooper continued, "would have brought close to 1,000 guests to the Village for four days during the month of October. Undoubtedly many of these people would have been visiting the Village for the first time and would have become repeat business."

"I WOULD VENTURE to say that between 80 and 90 per cent of the total monies expended by convention groups stays in the community. It is used to pay salaries, purchase food and supplies, pay utilities, repairs and taxes. It is similar to setting up a chain reaction . . . the money then passes into other hands which is again spent for necessities, as well as luxuries in the Village."

"This is just one incident where the economy of the entire community suffered because we were unable to provide interested convention groups with an attractive exhibit area, small conference rooms and sufficient auditorium seating all under one roof."

"The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce has signified their intention to continue their efforts until ultimate success is achieved and the city has a convention hall," Cooper concluded.

Graduation Exercises Set For Sixth Grade Students

High school and junior high school students have their graduation exercises, but the end of the school year is just as important to youngsters in the sixth grade of Palm Springs elementary schools.

To mark the passage of elementary school students to the Nellie N. Coffman Junior High School, district officials have programmed a series of "promotion exercises" at six area schools.

PROMOTION PROGRAMS for the various schools are as follows:

Cathedral City School: Promotion Day is Wednesday, June 4, which will be observed at 8 p. m. with a program that includes instrumental music, songs and dances. Refreshments will be served by the fifth grade.

Cahuilla School: Parents and guests will be entertained with a Promotion Day tea on Wednesday, June 4, at 2 p. m.

CIELO VISTA School: Promotion Day is also scheduled for Wednesday here. Sixth grade pupils will review the highlights of their studies for the year in a special assembly at 2 p. m. A presentation of music and square dances follows.

Desert Hot Springs School: Promotion Day exercises are scheduled for 7:30 p. m., Tuesday, June 3. The program features an awards assembly and entertainment.

Katherine Finch School: A special pupil-participation program is scheduled for 10 a. m., Wednesday.

Schools Supt. Wallace Mueller said that parents and guests are invited to attend all the Promotion Day programs.

The reciprocal agreement among the three states became effective last Jan. 1.

De Luxe to Hold Final Square Dance of Year

The De Luxe Trailer Park will hold its end of the season Square Dance on Wednesday, May 23, at 8 p.m.

As this is the last square dance to be held at the park this season, a special caller has been engaged. Refreshments also will be served.

THE CALLER, Ray Born, is well known in the Los Angeles area. He has been dancing for the past ten years and has been calling for five years.

Born is one of the organizers of "Ye Old College of Square Dance Knowledge" in the San Gabriel Valley. This group has taught well over a thousand people how to square dance.

KNOWN AS A "FUN" Caller Born is primarily interested in calling dances in such a manner that his dancers have fun all the time, even when doing challenge dances.

Fred Stewart, manager of De Luxe, said that "all square dancers in the Palm Springs area are invited." There will be no charge for the dancing or the refreshments.

Hacienda Riveira Sale to George Rennert Told

DESERT HOT SPRINGS—Sale of the Hacienda Riveira, one of the community's largest resorts, was announced today by Frederick Schwartz, builder and operator of the Hacienda Drive hotel.

The Hacienda was purchased by George Rennert, of Cathedral City.

Schwartz, who was engaged in the clothing business in Cathedral City for 10 years before moving here, has moved to Hollywood.

Rennert said he expects to improve the Hacienda snack bar. He added he plans to continue the current "club ticket plan" for swimming.

Village Chapel To Be Discussed By Auxiliary

The Lutheran Women's Missionary League of Southern California will consider creation of a Palm Springs chapel when league mission projects are discussed at its seventh biennial convention at the Los Angeles Statler Hotel Saturday and Sunday.

The league, an auxiliary of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, will also consider chapels for Fallbrook, the Deaf Mission at Los Angeles, Perris and Santa Paula-Ojai.

Besides his regular studies, Chaba was able to renew "an old friendship" for music at Palm Valley School. He never thought he'd again see a French horn when he left Hungary.

Chaba played the horn in his Budapest school orchestra. He soon renewed his old acquaintance, under the direction of Harry Tomlinson, and even joined the Palm Springs Civic Orchestra.

RIGHT NOW, CHABA is "very anxious" to become an American citizen. "I want to bring my mother here from Hungary, but I must be a citizen before I can do that," Chaba explained.

That's only one reason why Chaba wants to become a citizen, but you don't have to ask him the rest.

Army Inspectors Start Check in Explosion of 8 Nikes

LEONARDO, N.J., (AP)—A crack team of Army inspectors opened an investigation Friday into the explosion of eight supersonic Nike Ajax missiles that killed between seven and 10 persons and injured three others at a "safe as a gas station" Nike base near here.

Investigators from the Army Safety Inspector's Office in Washington rushed to the Chapel Hill Nike Base two miles from here Thursday after it was devastated by an explosion of Nike-Ajax missiles.

THE DISASTER came only three days after Army inspectors had rated the installation "superior" in overall safety.

And the explosion coincided with an Army announcement it was rearming nine New Jersey anti-aircraft bases, with deadlier Hercules missiles in place of the Nike-Ajax types. The Hercules can carry a nuclear warhead. The Nike-Ajax cannot.

THE DISASTER set off a wave of bitter indignation among municipal officials in the area, who charged they had been assured by military officials that the missile base posed no threat to the civilian population.

At least seven men were killed in the thunderous explosion, according to Brig. Gen. Charles F. Duff, commander of the 52nd Anti-aircraft Brigade at Fort Wadsworth, N. Y. Three were missing and feared blown to bits. Three men were injured, one seriously.

Army pathologists were called in to try to identify the dead.

ALL THE CASUALTIES, including civilians and soldiers, were on the base. Damage to the base, about the size of a baseball field, as estimated unofficially at $150,000.

No one was reported injured off the base, 30 miles south of New York City at the southern edge of New York Bay.

The explosions, which came in rapid succession about 10:30 p.m. p.d.t., caused deep resentment among municipal officials of the area.

Mayor Frank F. Blaisdell of Middletown Township said he doubted that the Army would move the missile base despite the explosions.

The explosions sent chunks of missiles flying several miles through the air, landing in yards, fields and forests. Windows were shattered, foundations were cracked and houses trembled as though they were being shaken by an earthquake. The blasts knocked down one woman a mile and a half from the scene.

Palm Springs T-Timers will hold a car wash Sunday at three service stations in this area. According to a spokesman for the organization, members of the T-Timers will conduct car washes at Hinkle and Johnson's Flying A Station at 305 North Indian; Bob's Texaco Station at 670 South Palm Canyon Drive; and Hansen's Richfield Station, 68-635 Broadway, Cathedral City. The car washes will be open from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m., Sunday, and will cost $1. Special wash jobs will also be done for $10. On Monday the T-Timers will have a speaker at their meeting a member of the California Highway Patrol who will explain the use of flare at traffic scenes, as well as laws and problems on the highway. The T-Timers main purpose is to give help to motorists who have a breakdown or other automobile trouble.

DESERT HOT SPRINGS — Army Specialist Third Class David L. Dellinger and Mrs. Dellinger arrived here from Ft. Ord this week. Dellinger plans to spend a 30-day leave visiting his mother, Mrs. Gus Williamson, and his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Buol. Dellinger is scheduled to leave next month for duty in Germany, where he will be joined by his wife in November. Previously stationed in Germany, Dellinger returned to the United States 18 months ago.

Irrigation Farming

HASTINGS, Neb. — (UP) — Nebraska's first pump irrigation development farm, a 160-acre tract now in dryland operation, has been established west of here. Conversion from dryland to irrigation will take place this spring. Fifty to 60 acres will be placed under irrigation this year. The farm will be used to acquaint irrigators with the proper methods and cultural practices needed to make irrigation a success.

Traffic Was Bright Spot In Police Report for Month

Traffic was a bright spot during the month of April, which was otherwise marked by a considerable increase in crimes ranging from checks to home burglaries, it was reported today by Chief of Police August G. Kettmann. The chief noted in his monthly report that the month of April had no crimes reported against the person, ie: homicide, rape, robbery or felonious assault. TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS dropped 31 per cent, from 35 to 24 a year ago, while moving violations were increased from 142 to 265. Parking citations were down from 203 to 175. Burglary complaints tripled over last year's report for the same month, jumping from 5 to 17, while fictitious checks were up from 8 to 21. Theft of amounts over $50 jumped from 12 to 28 and thefts under $50 increased from 31 to 48. TO COMBAT THE increasing problem the department is pursuing a six beat patrol system during the night time hours, and

Road Crews To Have Comfort At Blythe Camp

An additional $1,400 was granted the county road commission this week for purchase of an air conditioner for the road camp at Blythe where road construction crews, numbering 35 men, are now stationed. Road Commissioner A. C. Keith said it was necessary to maintain the crew in Thermal longer than had been planned with the result that warm weather has hit the desert area before the road work at Blythe could be completed and it has been difficult to keep the kitchen and dining quarters at a comfortable temperature.

all windows and doors of commercial buildings are checked. More frequent checking is done at higher risk locations, such as super markets, bars, jewelry stores and large department stores. There are approximately 1,900 doors on commercial establishments in the city at the present time. Easter, with its attendant influx of juveniles, occurred April 6, and pursuing a firm policy of enforcement, a large number of youngsters were taken into custody, mainly for possession of alcoholic beverages, disturbing of the peace, and for violation of curfew. This number totaled 57, as compared with 16 recorded Easter Week a year ago. A great many more were contacted without any action taken. Those totaled 182 against only 34 in 1957, a jump of 96 per cent.

A REVIEW OF THE police department work load after ten months of the fiscal year indicated an increase of between 25 and 30 per cent over 1957, according to the chief's report.

After a study of the budget, it is the belief of Kettmann that by careful husbanding of funds the department will be able to go through the remaining two months without additional appropriations in spite of the increase.

Eastern Desert Development Prospects Bright

Farm Advisor N. L. McFarlane is "quite bullish" on future agricultural development in the desert area between the Coachella and Palo Verde valleys. Supervisor George Berkey told the supervisors this week, now it is known that water is available there. At Berkey's suggestion, the board of Supervisors asked the planning commission and road department to consider securing easements along section lines in the area to pave the way for road development as the need arises. Berkey said such an action preceding the growth of the Coachella Valley proved invaluable.

Progress Must Be Understood, Recognized

The troubles plaguing the present French Government are not the results of any recent unwise political decisions or actions.

The start of France's present political predicament had its roots and origin away back at the start of the nineteenth century. It was about that time that the inexorable laws of nature—continuing growth as opposed to decline and death—came under observation and scrutiny by men of learning and education.

A new "Law of Survival," as positive as Newton's Law of Gravity, came into being around the year 1900. This was the law of "Machine-crafted manufacture of goods and materials, vs countless generations of handicraft."

Only two nations embraced this new law with alacrity. These were the United States and Germany.

The rest is history.

By the year 1914, Germany had reached the explosive stage in its requirements for trade expansion, due to its whole-hearted acceptance of the new machine age.

England, France and Italy opposed this little understood need for expansion and World War I was the result. While Germany lay prostrate for a short while—England made some half-hearted efforts to modernize her industries. But not so with France and Italy.

Then came the revival of German industrial genius, and a greater, more determined effort to break out of the encircling bands of the agrarian triumvirate—England, France and Italy.

Once again, the age respected game of power politics failed to work for the non-machine respecting nations—and World War II hit with sudden, hellish fury. The battle of machines and production lines was on once again—and the world shook in agony and terror.

America finally won that battle (by the skin of its teeth) and the shopkeepers of France, England and Italy were once again saved from extinction. Horse drawn plows again appeared on their fields and farms—mules in their mines—and hand looms in their textile centers—was still devoid of any nation or peoples seriously devoted to the new laws of "Mass Production."

As all students of physics are well aware, "Nature Abhors a Vacuum," and all of central Europe—after 50 years of effort—was still devoid of any nation or peoples seriously devoted to the new laws of "Mass Production."

But not for long.

The least likely of nations, in a gambler's choice, suddenly embraced the machine age with breath-taking suddenness. Russia accepted nature's challenge, and the vacuum existed no longer.

For France to continue to attempt to form new governments not dedicated to, nor in sympathy with this new-world age of mass production, would be like returning to the days of the Caesars and the Emperors.

It simply can not be done.

It is fervently to be hoped that England will see this handwriting on the wall before it is too late. If not, the never-ending march of civilization towards machine-age benefits for world dwellers, in spite of men, mice and new coalition governments of expediency, will suffer serious setback.

Until these lessons are learned—the crises we now see in France will be repeated many times in many other spots in Europe and the world until the laws of progress are learned and respected.

Laws of Life

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Farewell to polemics! An end to extremism! Human beings live whole lifetimes wishing they could learn these lessons and could make them stick. But occasionally it appears that events are conspiring to impress us with rules, which apply equally to personal, national and international affairs.

Two fine writers, columnists Frank Kent and Tom Stokes, died within a few weeks of each other. Kent was conservative, Stokes was liberal, but they not only liked and respected each other, they had many friends in common, including this one.

FRIENDSHIP AND respect, if they are genuine and if they grow out of normal competition, can pave the highways that lead to human understanding. Neither Communism nor Capitalism is likely to disappear any time soon. War seems to have been displaced, for a while at least, by economic competition.

Men like Kent and Stokes, fierce believers in their opposing doctrines, never thought of eliminating one another. They found one another most useful for sharpening their wits and arguments.

IT WOULD BE overstraining the analogy to insist on any exactitude of comparison, but there is hardly a subject in Congress hardly a problem before the State Department, which does not have a "Kent" side and a "Stokes" side. The world we want to live in is one which accommodates both sides, not by merging them or denaturing them, but by permitting their adjacent and equal existence.

Two overseas travelers, Richard Nixon and Van Cliburn, are back from contrasting experiences abroad. The Vice President is a nervy and able fellow—the country could do a lot worse than elect him President in 1960—but Nixon in Latin America was a salesman ("Love that soft soap"). He was a pusher of American propaganda. The Latin stoned him for his message. His "good will" tour was turned into a riotous expression of no approval in the host countries.

WHATEVER ELSE can be said about mobs, whether in Caracas or Little Rock, they are an authentic, emotional, if unmanly expression of public opinion. If you belittle mobs, organized, masked or spontaneous, you are belittling a whole host of American revolutionary uprisings, beginning with the Boston Tea Party.

Van Cliburn, the 23-year-old Texas pianist, drew adulation in Russia a few weeks before Nixon found hatred in Lima and Caracas. Cliburn went to Moscow without polemics or propaganda, with only his art and personality. The Russian demonstrations were mob-like, being quite emotional, informal and popularly-expressed.

THEY SHOWED the opposite side of the same coin that Nixon found in South America. The Russians are music-lovers and they loved this talented young musician, but that isn't all. Not being an authority on music, I consulted a man who is.

Francis Madeira, conductor of the Rhode Island Philharmonic Orchestra, is Spanish - descended and often travels in Europe in his line of work. Madeira is also visiting associate professor of music at Brown University. He told me:

"THE MUSCOVITES loved Cliburn, just as New Yorkers and Londoners loved the Russian ballet performers. But deeper than this is a desire and an anxiety concerning world peace. It exists in all people. With it goes a distrust and resentment of their political leaders who always seem to have us on the brink of war.

"Well, the reception of Van Cliburn offered the Russians a safe and legal way to yell for peace. It is the same in this country. It is not socially or politically advisable to cheer for peace with Russia—but it's perfectly all right to whoop it up for Russian dancers, chess players and artists."

AGAIN, IT WOULD be wrong to overstrain the analogy. But there is a lesson in the Nixon-Van Cliburn comparison. It would be silly to substitute piano players for diplomats. It might be fatal to accept the false security theory that we can sing, dance and play our way past the Communist menace. But we ought to think about Kent-Stokes and Nixon-Cliburn, and think hard.

By chance, Congress has a series of bills which relate to extending the so-called Reciprocal Trade treaties and lowering the tariffs. The free traders are foreigner-minded, while the protectionists are American-minded. But there has lately appeared an idea which would, I think, make it possible for these extremists to find common ground.

BY GIVING Congress a chance to veto an unwise tariff concession by the President (through the State Department), it may be that a workable truce is possible.

All these recent events could teach us if—but it's a big "if"—we permit ourselves to learn.

—Holmes Alexander

THIS SIDE of The Sun

Why should we suffer this way in order to stay through May? Why not let us go away, before we begin to sag and away?

That came to me in a communication from Cathedral City and was headed:

POEM BY SAM ARNER Dedicated to Phat Graettinger The poem had a postscript: "Please forgive me, I couldn't help it."

WELL, DON'T BLAME ME. I still think that May is one of the nicest months in the desert. I didn't do it, I said, if you recall, there'd be some hot days in May but that on the whole, the month would be delightful. Also said that the old-timers tell me that sometimes in May, a fire in the grate would feel nice or that the furnace switch would be flipped.

IT WAS JUST two weeks ago today—May 9—that a woman called me and said: "We had a fire in the fireplace last night." The minimum was 37 on the night of May 9. So there's one point vindicated. Somebody DID light a fire in the fireplace in May, just like the old-timers say. Kinda tough to believe, the forepart of this week.

WELL, ANYWAY, after receiving Mr. Arner's communication, I wet a thumb and went back through the files, noting the maximum and minimum temperatures for May from the first to the 20th, the day this is being drawn from this type-writer. And I find that the average maximum for the 20 days was 96 degrees. Eight days when it hit three digits—hottest, 110—and six in the 90s. The other six were in the 80s.

AVERAGE MINIMUM for the month up to this writing is 54 degrees. That makes a mean temperature for the month of 75 degrees. Now, by mean, I don't mean something malevolent—I mean "mean" in the sense of average. And I don't think a mean of 75 is mean, at all. Besides, I didn't originate this "Stay Through May" idea. I heard it about 12 years ago and thought it was so good that I adopted it and am not ashamed of that.

May is a nice month here—I like the rest of them, too. P.S.—But, thank you, Mr. Arner. Any contribution which gets me out of some work is most welcome.

ANOTHER COMMUNICATION was from A. L. "That mobile bar idea of yours last week is a good one. But you forgot one thing. Every bar should have a blond sitting at one end of it, waiting for someone to talk to. Does your idea include her?" Listen, A. L., getting a license for that mobile bar is going to be trouble enough.

Says Anna Herbert: "The old-fashioned house used to have the dining room inside and the powder room outside. It's vice-versa in these modern times."

We flew down to the old Japanese capital of Kyoto. It takes an hour and a half on Japan Air Lines DC-4, a very pleasant flight.

In Kyoto, they made a good many scenes of "Sayonara." Though the company did not get all the co-operation they would have liked, Japan did not care too much for the Michener book of the picture. Not officially. They like it at the box office, though.

"I SEE THREE times," said Mitsuko, a bathhouse girl who is now famous in Kyoto as the girl who "gave bath to Mollon Brand."

The old Japanese town was spared by American bombers. It has about a million people and three whooping geisha districts. This is the traditional home of the honorable geisha.

THREE GEISHA troupes are playing the local theaters at this time.

If is one of the great towns for Japanese gentlemen on the loose. On the expense account.

"I think I had best run over and see how the factory is doing," says the Japanese honorable gentleman to his honorable wife. "Though as you know the factory is in a terrible factory town. And I hate every minute I am away."

He then picks up a ticket and flies off to the Kyoto tea houses.

ONE OF the most interesting shops in Tokyo is in Tokyo Central Railroad Station. It specializes in gifts from various towns in Japan.

When the Japanese honorable gentleman comes back from Kyoto, he rushes to this shop. He tells them the name of the town he was supposed to be in.

THE SHOPKEEPER reaches on the shelf and takes down a gift that is typical of this town. He gets out wrapping paper of an actual shop in that town. He sets back the date on a little date stamp.

He wraps the package in the special paper. And he dates it back a couple of days. The Japanese honorable gent takes it home to his honorable wife.

"A LITTLE PRESENT I picked up while visiting the factory town," he says.

The honorable wife is over-joyed to have such an honorable husband.

We stay at the Doi Hotel in Kyoto. It is so private that you must be introduced to get a room. It is the most elegant hotel I have seen in Japan. But like all Japanese hotels, the beds are so short your feet hang over the end.

IT DOES NOT matter much since the bed is on the floor anyway.

The problem is keeping your feet and shoulders covered at the same time by the quilt.

A curious thing about Japanese hotels is that you cannot ask the price of a room. It is very bad manners.

YOU JUST TAKE the room. When you leave they hand you the bill. Along with a little present. The bill is always correct. And rooms will run about $10 to $15 including breakfast, dinner and a 10 per cent service charge. Alongside the door you will see a plant with eight leaves and a thick stalk. It is the first thing planted. It keeps away thieves.

YOU DO NOT carry any packages into your hotel. The maid comes to meet you at the gate and carries them for you. She sits with you and serves you while you eat.

She takes you down to the gate each time you go out. You have to be back by 12 midnight. Or turn into a pumpkin. There is no night help. Everybody goes to bed at 12 and they lock the gates. If you want to whoop it up into the small hours you are supposed to do it in your room.

THAT IS THE Japanese custom and nobody minds that at all.

Last night, the Japanese expense account boys below me went nearly all night. And between laughter and the cat-and-elephant music of the samisen, I was a wreck in the morning. I should have gone down and joined the party.

"It's too early to announce for the Presidency, boys!... At this stage I hardly know yet which issues are worth evading!..."

EARL WILSON:

Singing His Way to Million

NEW YORK—I'd like you to meet a sterling young gentleman named Johnny Mathis who is credited by some with bringing back music from wherever it's been.

The kids even say Johnny made Cole Porter famous. Johnny denies it. He claims Cole Porter's responsible.

A lean, laughing, articulate, 23-year-old Negro from San Francisco who wanted to sing opera but settled for "pop," Johnny's soon to star in Hollywood, in "The Johnny Mathis Story."

So let's join him at the Amalfi restaurant.

The Italian food's stacked high. Johnny's just made 5 record "sides" and is cuttin' out in a second for the Copacabana where he's jamming 'em.

"How do you account for your appeal to adults?"

"They dig the familiar songs. Cole Porter and Harold Arlen are my favorite writers. Cole Porter didn't appeal to the kids. But the parents always dug him and now the kids do, and they think Johnny Mathis made him famous." He laughed at the idea. "How did the Johnny Mathis story start?"

"I was going to San Francisco State College and wanted to teach English and coach track. (He'd high-jumped 6-5½). My private teacher told me I didn't have the voice to sing opera so I fiddled around with pop tunes."

One day at a jazz session he made a big hit, and acquired a woman manager, Helen Noga, who got him a record contract.

"We pulled a lot of strings to get on Ed Sullivan's show and it came off bad," he remembered glumly. "We were supposed to do two songs and wound up doing a chorus of one. It was hard to get on shows after that."

"It wasn't Ed's fault. But some poor little son-of-a-gun gets the butt of everything when he's starting. But that's Show Biz. We had it rough."

He did better with Perry Como, Eddie Fisher and George Gobel—his records, "Wonderful, Wonderful," "It's Not for Me to Say," and "Chances Are," got big—and now he's turning down TV.

"They don't think I should be exposed too much on TV while I'm doing the Hollywood Starsville bit," Johnny said.

"We have an annuity thing like when I'm 40 I get like a million dollars—but you have to keep putting that money in every year!"

He gulped and it showed through his open-throated tan shirt under the white sweater.

Johnny takes no credit for picking the songs. "If it were left to me, I wouldn't sell two records. I always pick the wrong side."

Johnny's manager normally talks for him, so he can rest his vocal chords.

"I have a doctor who tells me the most important thing to do with your voice when it isn't actually earning money, is to shut up," he said.

"You shouldn't be talking to me now!" I said.

"I happen to consider this worth money," he said—the flatterer.

Buick wanted to sponsor Steve Allen three weeks out of every four next season and switch him to another night, but Greyhound signed him for 52 Sundays (with other sponsors being lined up)... MIKE CONNOLLY:

Two Career Trouble

HOLLYWOOD — The Joan Woodward-Paul Newman marriage was rocky for a while there because of that peculiar disease that seems to strike only in Hollywood—Two-Careers-in-the-same-Familyitis — But has settled down comfortably now that Joanne has her best actress Oscar for "Three Faces of Eve" on her mantle.

Here's the long-range plan set by the Newmans: first they'll co-star in Fox's version of the best-selling "Rally 'Round the Flag, Boys." Then he'll meander back to Manhattan to star in a new N. Richard Nash play while she stays here and co-stars with Yul Brynner in William Faulkner's "The Sound and the Fury" for Fox. Following which Miss Woodward will head her way Gothamward too, to settle down with her husband and raise a family.

THEIR BUDDIES believe the Pier Angeli-Vic Damone marital mess stems from his gambling and also from his extreme jealousy of the gal... Bon Mitchell's pet name for his wife, Dorothy, is Casserole — "because," says Bob, "she's a dish with everything!"

Carroll Baker's total salary for "Baby Doll," the picture that made her a star, was a flimsy $5,000. But now she's asking $200,000 per picture (she's up for Clark Gable's femme lead in "But Not for Me" at Paramount), plus "living expenses for my family while I'm making the picture in Hollywood."

MARLON BRANDO is looking for a bachelor hideaway in the Hollywood Hills—not to live in, just to get away from it all when he's in a sulked-mood... They're planning a 30-anniversary salute in Monaco for Princess Grace's 30th birthday this year. A vodka distillery cancelled out on an ad endorsement ("The Gift That Leaves You Breathless") by Zsa Zsa Gabor because of the all-too-obvious gift tie-in with Rafael Trujillo.

ST. LOUIS MUNICIPAL opera has roped Dolores Gray to follow Robert Hope's "Roberta" romp with "Lady in the Dark" and "Silk Stockings" this summer... Wait'll you see "Indiscreet," the new Ingrid Bergman-Cary Grant picture — a WOW! Cary, of course, doesn't have to prove that his forte is comedy.

But Ingrid, of all people, comes across as one of the finest of our light comedienne. Her boudoir scene with Grant, in which he fondles her passionately via a split-screen gimmick (he's in Paris, she's in London) drew so many laughs at the sneak preview it drowned out the dialogue. So I'm going back to see it again. And AGAIN! Pat O'Brien orating — about the well-meaning guard in Death Row leading the condemned man to the electric chair with these words of solace: "More power to you son!"

TV TOPICS — Paramount overrode CBS-TV's "no-phone-call" edict for the grieving Red Skelton and called him at home to offer Red a guest shot in Jerry Lewis' "Geisha Boy" — to take Skelton's mind off Richard's death by keeping him busy.

Same network's bought-and-paid for "Fame Is a Four-Letter Word" by Aaron Spelling, a rough-and-ready rundown on the roughest ruckiest between two Hollywoodites since Ella Raines accused Miriam Hopkins in court of swiping her porch furniture, will not be produced on Playhouse 90 or any other show, the network is THAT afraid of a lawsuit from the easily recognizable protagonists involved.

LITTLE JON Provost conked out of his Lassie series telefilm with the measles... Richard Egan grabbed my copy of Herman Kogan's beautiful new book about the Encyclopedia Britannica, "The Great EB," while I was visiting the actor's set at NBC-TV and cracked, "How intellectual can YOU get?"

Then he strated flipping through it and said, "Man, I take it back — it's show-biz!" It is too — everyone from William Archer to Irene Castle, from Harry Houdini to George Bernard Shaw.

THINGS WERE tough in the telefilming racket a year or so ago so cameraman Ray Fernstrom invented something for the kiddies called a "Pedal Pony," and it's starting to clean up for the guy. Ray, whose specialty is Western movies, designed the front part of a horse, with a galloping noisemaker inside the framework, that the kids snap over the handlebars of their bikes. It's just like horseback riding, except that it's easier on the backside.

Fred Astaire ankle the title role in MGM-TV's upcoming Father of the Bride series (Spencer Tracy played it in the movie) with this explanation: "I liked the script but at my age I can't help feeling it would be a mistake to tie myself up with a series for such a long time when I still have a few motion pictures left in me."

I'VE REACHED the point where I do only those things I want to do. That's why I sang 16 songs on Oscar Levant's local show the other night (on Hollywood's KCOP) for scale instead of accepting any of the big-money offers tossed my way by TV. Oscar and I are old friends and when he asked me to go on the show with him I was delighted to do it. Money didn't enter into the picture at all."

Speaking of inventions, Patsy Kelly tells me she's working on one too — an acutely-acoustic'd radio that only dogs can hear. It's called Hi-Fido.

Gardener's Checklist

1. Hurry to plant chrysanthemums for fall bloom.
2. Thin clematis armandi (evergreen clematis) vines to improve their shape.
3. Watch for lawn moths—you can see them in flight now. If you see them on your lawn you should spray now to prevent their laying eggs.
4. Roses in containers are wonderful to shop among this month. It's so nice to be able to see the colors and flower shapes as they actually are. Pictures often do not do them justice.
5. Many lovely annuals are available in flats now. They are unbeatable for summer color.

ENCHANTED HOMES has a new group of houses which will extend east from Sunset Way to join the present community of Enchanted Homes east and west of Louella Road. Muriel Bering Interiors has designed the decor in the model house now open at 212 Sunset Way.

This development is another stage in the multi-million dollar program of high quality homes now being carried out by the Alexander Construction Company.

Use Caution When Buying Cooling Unit

Buy your air conditioning as carefully as you would select a family doctor, choose a new home, or buy a car, warns the Better Business Bureau.
In a nationally circulated booklet, "When You Buy Air Conditioning," the Bureau lists rules to help you make sure your new cooling system will be long-lasting, efficient, and economical. Here are the principal rules:

1. KNOW THE reputation of the person you buy from and the manufacturer of the equipment.
2. Watch out for price cutters. They can't always assure proper installation and service, and may sell you old and little-known equipment for which parts are not available.
3. Choose a reputable contractor who will check your home conditions carefully, work up a system tailored for the house, and stand behind his installation.
4. MAKE SURE electrical wiring is adequate. A good contractor will do this and install any additional wiring necessary.
5. Find out what the guarantee is and who backs it. Unless a reputable firm with adequate repair facilities is in your locality, the guarantee may be worthless.
6. CHECK IN ADVANCE on the noise level of the system. A noisy unit can keep you and your neighbors awake. If it's installed outside the house, it can annoy an entire neighborhood.

The Bureau's booklet can be obtained from your local Better Business Bureau or by sending 10 cents to the National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Association, 640 Engineers Building, Cleveland 14, Ohio.

Driving Lessons

POWELL, Me. — (UP) — The state of Maine started driving instruction classes for some inmates of the Pineland Hospital and Training Center, an institution for the feeble-minded. Howard G. Richardson, state director of driver training, said the courses are being given to inmates in the higher I.Q. bracket who are near discharge.

Government Scientists Take New Step in Plant Control

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — Government scientists have "made" a chemical which moves freely among plants by way of their root systems.

Say you put a bit on a leaf. The plant moves it rapidly down through itself to its roots and discharges it into the ground. There the roots of adjacent plants pick up the chemical and move it upward to their leaves.

THAT'S A VERY clever trick for science to pull on vegetables. It is another step toward the day when vegetables will be as thoroughly man's slaves as machines are. Vegetables now have stubborn ways of their own.
The newly "invented" chemical is a growth regulator. Plants have a way of insisting upon over growing, of developing more foliage than they need to produce the parts upon which people feed.

IF YOU COULD put an end to such inefficiency, you'd be making a vegetable behave as you want it to behave — as you make a machine behave. The problem is how to do it with little effort and at small expense.

Four scientists at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Plant Research Laboratories at Beltsville, Md., began with existing evidence that when atoms of chlorine, a poisonous gaseous element, are added to the molecule of benzoic acid, you have a compound which a plant moves rapidly down to its roots and discharges into the ground.

SO PAUL J. LINDER, James C. Craig, Jr., Frank E. Cooper, and John W. Mitchell toyed with the benzoic acid molecule. They added chlorine atoms here and there and tried out the various altered molecules on bean plants until they had one which not only worked but worked spectacularly.

It was 2, 3, 6-trichlorobenzoic acid. The experiments were reported to the American Chemical Society.

FIRST, THEY SHOWED its high efficiency as a growth regulator in single plants. But did it move from one plant to another by way of the roots? They showed it did by putting it on the leaves of a single plant and then seeing adjacent plants grow in the same regulated way as the treated plant.

It occurred to them, of course, that perhaps the chemical evaporated while still on the leaves and was transmitted to adjacent plants through the atmosphere—or that treated leaves on one plant came into contact with untreated leaves on another. But these possibilities were disproved conclusively.

Gibberellic Acid Causes 'Foolish' Plants in Japan

STORRS, Conn. — (AP) — University of Connecticut scientists have come up with better apple crops by using a product from a fungus that causes "crazy disease" and produces "foolish plants" in Japan.

Howard G. Applegate, an assistant professor of agriculture, said the new chemical, gibberellic acid, helps speed the germination of fruit trees, vegetable plants, and flowers and protects them against adverse weather.

APPLEGATE SAID the acid was tested on apple trees and brought them to production in only one year after germination—a process that usually takes up to five years.

The acid, said Applegate, is a product of research by Japanese scientists. They obtained it from a fungus which attacks rice plants producing "crazy disease." The stricken plants are called "foolish plants."

APPLEGATE SAID the "miracle chemical" can overcome weather conditions and hasten plant growth to increase yield.

Advice Given For Lawn Care

A few simple rules followed faithfully during the summer should give a gardener a healthy pest-free lawn, says the California Association of Nurserymen. One of the most important rules is to prevent insect and disease attacks instead of waiting for damage which must be cured. That's the familiar adage about an "ounce of prevention" in specific lawn language.

A monthly application of dieldrin or chlordane spray or dust will prevent one of the worst pests — lawn moths. A gardener who applies this same spray in a wide swath around his home will free his living quarters of ants, earwigs and other pests during the summer. Directions on package labels should always be followed carefully. As a general rule watering should be done before spraying for insects, not after.

Turkey Spread
Left-over turkey makes a good dip or spread to serve as appetizer. Whip 5 ounces Old York cheese spread until creamy. Add 1/4 cup minced cooked turkey and 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Pile on potato chips, place under broiler flame until cheese begins to melt and serve while hot.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Press were among Villagers who attended the Helldorado celebration at Las Vegas, and report it was the largest in 24 years.

Chicken Stew Is Company Fare
Need an easy dish for unexpected company? Chicken stew does the trick.
Simmer broilers or fryers in salted water until the meat falls free of the bones. Remove any broth. Discard bones and skin. To save time, add vegetables already prepared and ready to cook (canned or frozen). Whole kernel corn, okra, tomatoes and lima beans are good. Add freshly chopped onion, a dash of tabasco sauce, pepper, and thyme. Simmer about 1 hour, stirring occasionally. Combine butter with flour for thickening. Stir into liquid and stir constantly until liquid is uniformly thickened. Simmer about 10 minutes. Add chopped green pepper and other seasoning if desired. Serve hot with buttered rolls.

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE

By OSCAR FRALEY, United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK — Promoters of such competitions as mah jong, curling and clam digging long have accused Fearless Frayley of complacency towards these sporting classics but it's time to make a stand when such scurrilous charges are made anent the America's Cup.

As a sportsman Old Fearless is considered in a gin rummy class with such masters as Lloyd Mangrum and Craig Wood and, when it comes to galloping dominoes, the Indianapolis crowd will testify I am strictly front row. With pardonable pride, it also must be said that here is one of the best fango hitters on Third Avenue.

IT MUST BE ADMITTED, however, that yachting always has left me cold—and slightly seasick.

But there is no personal animosity in this corner toward the America's Cup races to be sailed off Newport in September.

By way of explaining one man's sea-going insouciance it should be admitted that nobody can be blamed for regarding this event as a historical pageant which belongs to the drama department. It is practically an off-shoot of the Boston Tea Party.

In the first place, it gained its greatest fame through the tenacious if unsuccessful exploits of a British tea merchant named Thomas Lipton. Sir Thomas, whose picture you can see in any grocery store, became perturbed over the fact that Britain hadn't been able to recapture a cup it put up for grabs in 1951—and lost, so far irrevocably, to a band of Yankee sailors.

Britain, ruler of the bounding main since Sir Francis Drake gave up bowling, had been trying to get back the cup ever since. So in 1899 Sir Thomas took his first crack at the chore. No dice. He took four more swipes at it, the last in 1930. Still no dice.

WHEN HE GAVE UP the galleon, his five yachts, known as Shamrock I, etc., had cost him $15,000,000. The cup is worth $230. So you can see that there is more here than meets the eye.

The British, who made their last bid in 1937, feel they have a fine chance this time around. The rules were amended in 1956 so that the challenger doesn't have to sail here "on her own bottom." Which means that, instead of battling the Atlantic, the yacht will be shipped to the United States. The minimum waterline length also was reduced from 65 to 44 feet, which saves quite a few pounds as well as ounces.

An event designed to promote international sportsmanship, the America's Cup; alas, hasn't always done so. James Ashbury, British challenger in 1870 and 1871, threatened to bring his lawyer with him. The Earl of Dunraven did just that in 1893 and 1895, trying to prove charges that there was unfair play.

THE BRITISH PRESS in applauding the new challenger, blames past reversals on failure to tune their craft "in which Americans are masters of the art because they take so much trouble," and admit that their helmsmen "have wilted under the strain of the cup series, particularly in the glare of American publicity." So they're heading here once again with a craft named the "Sceptre" and after 107 years it's time they got to say "Bottoms up." And that kind of yachting, it should be added, is a real pleasure.

Little Leaguers Tangle Tonight In Third Games

Palm Springs Little Leaguers wind up the first round in their 1958 season tonight at the Polo Grounds with another double-header. First game starts at 7 p. m. and the second at 8:30.

Junior Police stack their 2-0 record against the Boys Club, 0-2, in the opener. The Police now lead the hoop having disposed of the Cameron Stars and Hathaway-Buick teams.

In the second game Cameron Stars and Hathaway-Buick will fight it out for second place.

Each team is 1-1 to date, both having bowed to the JPs and won from the Boys Club.

MAY BUILD STADIUM PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Phillies are "interested" in a proposed stadium to be built on the grounds of the Cedarbrook Country Club.

Giles' Threat Stirs New L.A. Row

Foes of Contract Cry Foul

By PAUL CORCORAN
United Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES — A statement by National League President Warren Giles that the league would take "immediate steps" to move the Dodgers to another city if the Chavez Ravine referendum is defeated drew claims of "foul" today from opponents of the contract.

They interpreted it as a lighthouse move to swing sentiment in favor of the Dodger issue. Los Angeles voters decide June 3 on whether to approve the contract which would provide the Dodgers with some 300 acres of land in Chavez Ravine for a permanent 50,000-seat park.

COUNCILMAN John C. Holland, a leading foe of the Chavez Ravine proposal, said the statement by Giles was the "last desperate threat of a frightened group of greedy men. If the people of Los Angeles bow to this threat, it will be to the everlasting shame of the city." Giles, in Cincinnati, issued a 600-word statement to Southern California reporters covering the team in which he said he would "recommend to the league that we take immediate steps to study ways and means of moving the Dodger franchise to another city," if the contract proposal is beaten.

"If by some chance," he continued, "the voters of Los Angeles should disapprove the contract, the National League will take it as an expression that conditions exist in Los Angeles which indicate a lack of enthusiasm for major league baseball," said Giles.

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE president said "overwhelming approval of the referendum will be the strongest indication we can have" that major league baseball would succeed here after "the novelty of big league ball has gone."

The contract between the Dodgers and the city of Los Angeles for Chavez Ravine was signed before the National League authorized the move to California. But opponents, including members of the council and some supervisors, gathered sufficient signatures on petitions to force the referendum.

Dodger owner Walter O'Malley, who finally managed to locate the club on a temporary basis in the Coliseum, had little to say when advised of Giles' statement. "The Dodgers want to stay out of politics and we wish politics were not involved with baseball at this time. We have our hands full now with many problems, on and off the field. This presents still another."

Tommy Jacobs Leading by Two At Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Youthful Tommy Jacobs, Whittier, Calif., who admitted he was somewhat surprised, sported a two-stroke edge Friday at the start of the second round of the $22,000 Kansas City Open.

The 23-year-old Jacobs, a tournament tourist for only a year, equalled the Hillcrest Course record of 64, 8 - under - par with a brilliant opening 18 holes Thursday.

He canned a 20-foot eagle putt on the fourth hole and went on to bang six birdies for his superb performance. The course standard was set by Johnny Bulla in 1946.

Two veteran tee tourists, PGA champion Lionel Hebert, Lafayette, La. and Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla. were two shots away from Jacobs who has earned only $3,105 this season.

Bill Skowron

Herb Score

ARE THEY BRITTLE?—The New York Yankees, the Cleveland Indians, sports writers and baseball fans are beginning to wonder if these two stars are brittle. Bill Skowron, muscular Yankee first baseman, is on the shelf again with a bad back. Herb Score, ace leftie pitcher for the Indians, sprained his ankle playing basketball during spring training, and hasn't been able to pitch since April because of a sore elbow.

Desert Golfers Tee Off at Tamarisk Club Tomorrow

7th Desert Rat Tournament to Draw Big Field

Approximately 100 desert area residents are expected to tee off early tomorrow morning in the seventh renewal of the Desert Rat Golf tournament at Tamarisk Country Club, the final scheduled tournament for the season.

Play is over a 36-hole medal route with 18 holes tomorrow and the final 18 Sunday.

Elsworth Vines, Tamarisk club pro, is in charge of arrangements for the event.

Pat Martin is defending champion in the low gross department of the lower handicappers and Jim Fluch, Indio, and Tom Haynes, Palm Springs and Los Angeles, in the low net field.

Defending champions in the higher handicap bracket are Milt Hunter, Indio, low gross, and Vern Gisel, low net.

Following the Desert Rat tournament, Tamarisk Country Club golf course will remain open for play all summer, Vines said.

Rademacher and Folley to Tangle In Charity Bout

LOS ANGELES — Heavyweight contender Pete Rademacher claimed Friday he could have had a re-match with champion Floyd Patterson but instead chose to meet Zora Folley of Arizona here before seeking another title shot.

Olympic auditorium matchmaker George Parnassus announced Thursday he had signed Rademacher and Folley for a late July fight as the 17th annual "fight for life's" charity bout for the non-sectarian City of Hope hospital.

Parnassus also asked Patterson to meet the winner here in September.

Contacted by telephone at his Columbus, Ga., home, Rademacher said that his bout with Folley should be a "good fight," pointing out that the pair had met twice before as amateurs with a win each.

"This will be our 'rubber' meeting and I decided to meet Folley instead of trying for another Patterson fight to prove I am the logical contender," Rademacher said.

Godih, Busso TV Bout Rated Even

NEW YORK — Algeria-born Lahouari Godih, lightweight champion of France, brings his world-title campaign to Madison Square Garden Friday night for a TV fight with contender Johnny Busso of New York.

Their 10-rounder will be televised and broadcast nationally at 10 p. m. e.d.t. by NBC.

Unbeaten in the last three years, 29-year-old Godih seeks his 21st straight victory in his second United States start. He impressively outpointed welterweight Larry Baker at Washington, D.C., April 18.

Nevertheless, the betting is at "even money" because of Busso's apparently superior punch and accurate hitting at long range. Moreover, 23-year-old, Busso is rated fifth among contenders by the National Boxing Association. Godih is unranked.

Vasquez Kayos Delgado in Third

LOS ANGELES — Mauro Vasquez, 19-year-old knockout sensation from Mexico City, successfully defended his perfect record Thursday night with a third-round kayo over Vince Delgado in a 10-rounder at Olympic Auditorium.

The handsome, 128 - pound Vasquez caught up with Delgado, 127 1/2, Los Angeles, at 1:40 of the third with a sharp right to the chin which floored the loser for the count of 10.

It was Vasquez' 14th knockout in 15 professional bouts. He kayoed 30 of 34 amateur opponents he faced.

Trojans Go After 17th PCC Title In Track, Field

BERKELEY — The mighty Trojans of southern California, nationally supreme in track and field for most of the time during the last quarter century, go after their 17th win in the last 18 years in the Pacific Coast Conference meeting opening at Berkeley today.

With world record holder Charley Dumas in the high jump and the great Rink Babka in the discus leading the way, coach Jess Mortenson's crew isn't expected to have too much trouble. Today's competition opens at 4:30 p. m., with most of the major conflicts scheduled for Saturday.

The only competition for the Trojans is expected to come from Rafer Johnson, who'll be competing for UCLA. The decathlon star is entered in eight events: both sprints, both hurdles, the shot put, broad jump, discus and javelin. However, it is probable that he'll not compete in more than four. He has a good chance to win in three: the high hurdles, javelin and broad jump.

Braves Find 'em Same Old Giants

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer
You'll have to excuse the Milwaukee Braves if they think San Francisco's "wonder boys" look suspiciously like those same old sixth-place Giants.

The Braves had their first look of the season at the Giants Thursday night and could have been playing the New York Yankees for all the respect they showed for all the respect they showed a team which had won five straight and 12 of 14 games to open up a 2 1/2-game lead in the National League.

The final score was 9-3 and the chief executives were Lew Burdette and Frank Torre, a couple of fellows who knew the Giants away back when...

games for this stage of a pennant race when they edged out the Detroit Tigers, 5-4.

The Boston Red Sox whipped the Kansas City Athletics, 8-5, the Cleveland Indians beat the Washington Senators, 3-1, and the Chicago White Sox scored a 5-1 triumph over the Baltimore Orioles in other A. L. activity.

Ted Williams slammed the 16th grand slam homer of his career, high among active players, and Ted Lepcio also homered as the Red Sox scored their sixth victory in eight games.

BURDETTE HAD BEEN having his troubles this season with a 3-3 record and only two complete games in seven starts. But he recognized those Giants — he was 2-0 against them last year and 14-7 lifetime — with an eight-hitter that gave him his fourth win. He had five at the same stage of last season.

Torre, who hit three of his season total of five homers against the Giants last season, also recognized old friends in new uniforms. He knocked in five runs, three with his first homer of the year, one with a sacrifice fly and another when he drew one of relief pitcher Stu Miller's two bases-filled walks in the midst of a three-run second-inning rally.

IN FACT, the only Giant to give the Braves much trouble was a fellow they never saw before: rookie of the year candidate, Orlando Cepeda, who had three hits including a two-run homer in the sixth inning. It was Cepeda's 12th — one less than NL leader Frank Thomas of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The victory left the Braves a game and a half behind the Giants but they're right on the 1957 schedule which carried them to a world championship. They had an identical 19-11 record after 30 games last season and trailed the first-place Cincinnati Redlegs by two games.

Ernie Banks knocked in four runs with his eighth homer and two doubles to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 7-4 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in the only other NL game.

THE RUNAWAY YANKEES rolled to their ninth straight win and stretched their American League lead to an incredible 8 1/2.

BRVES SIGN PITCHER MILWAUKEE — The Milwaukee Braves have signed Tony Cloninger, a 17-year-old pitcher, for their Eau Claire club of the Class C Northern League.

Labor Pool Set Up for High School Students

Palm Springs employers were today informed that a "labor pool" of high school boys and girls has been established to help fill summer employment needs. School officials have set up a service that lists students who are "eager to work in order to gain experience and to earn money for college," said George Manning, high school counselor and word education coordinator. Manning urged potential employers needing part-time or full-time employees in trades, clerical, sales or unskilled and service occupations to consider the possibility of tapping this labor pool. Manning said the service is designed to bring employers and students together and he advised employers to contact the high school for assistance in locating employees. Prospective employers may secure more information by calling FA 5-2393.

City to Receive $44,789 Early Under New State Law

Robert C. Kirkwood, State Controller, this week announced the first payments of advance appropriations to local governments and reported that the City of Palm Springs will receive $44,789 under a new law to relieve cities and counties of cash shortages in the latter part of the fiscal year. Under the law, the state accelerates the flow of revenues into the hands of local government during the "dry" period when collections are low thus reducing the amounts which cities and counties often must borrow temporarily to meet cash needs. The law says that this money, which totals more than $70,000 for the City of Palm Springs, can be used in only certain areas, but is quite broad. Locally, monies are used for law enforcement, highway traffic control and regulation, and fire protection of highway traffic. The law specifies that monies must be expended for a "state purpose."

The amount of monies given each city is governed by population of the city. In this immediate area, Indio with 7,830 population received $28,687; Caazon, population 855, $3,132; Banning, population 8,358, $30,621; and Beaumont, population 3,453, $12,651.

Council Plans Improvements At Polo Grounds

The City Council after this week making a personal visit to the Palm Springs Polo Grounds, will initiate certain improvements in the area, possibly at the council meeting on May 28.

The installation of curbs and gutters around the rectangles in from the hall park was listed as one improvement to be discussed at the meeting, and others were the painting of the bleachers in the polo arena and the paving of areas around the Playhouse for additional parking.

Cost of the paving was estimated at approximately $2,000, and monies for the improvements will be taken out of the bond fund for parks and recreation.

VILLAGE BANK EXECUTIVE Herb Samson, left, was re-installed as chairman of the Palm Springs District, Boy Scouts of America, by Owen Burnam, of Corona, president of the Riverside County Scout Council, in ceremonies conducted at the Saddle and Siroin Restaurant. Samson, vice president of the Security-First National Bank here, is serving his second consecutive year as chairman. Supervisors Get Charter Report From Sullivan

A detailed comparison of county government as it now is or could be in Riverside County under the state general law, with what it will be under the proposed charter if the people vote approval of the charter at the June 3 election, was presented to the Board of Supervisors this week by County Counsel Ray Sullivan, Jr.

Sullivan's report was recently requested by the supervisors at the suggestion of Supervisor George Berkey. It was accepted for study by the supervisors as individuals.

An attempt by Supervisor William Jones to put the board on record as to whether it favors or disapproves the proposed charter failed to get any support.

"If you want to express your own opinion, I think you should," said Supervisor Paul Anderson, board chairman, "but that doesn't mean the rest of us have to do so."

AN OPEN HOUSE this week marked the opening of the Ramon Modern Furniture Company at 4765 East Ramon Road. The company is owned by Swede and Stella Davis, who purchased the former Kenny Paul garage and renovated it into a furniture display showroom. The Davises started the well known Ramon Trading Post at Ramon and Sunrise Way seven years ago. They changed the name of the company because, Davis explained, they were handling so many nationally prominent groups of furniture that the old "Trading Post" name was misleading. (Desert Sun Photo).
